Snider, Amoros Set Pace With Two Home Runs

(Additional Stories on Page 8)

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers clinched one of the most exciting races in baseball history today, capturing their second consecutive National League pennant, on the final day of the season, by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-6.

The victory, Brooklyn's third straight over the Pirates, assured Manager Walter Alton's world champions of meeting the New York Yankees in the World Series next Wednesday even though the second-place Milwaukee Braves beat St. Louis 4-2 today. Brooklyn burst into a one-game lead yesterday with a doubleheader sweep over Pittsburgh while the Cardinals were turning back the Braves.

A jam-packed Ebbets Field crowd, numbering 31,983 paid spectators, came in for the kill and were treated to a flash of old-time Dodger power. Determined to nail down their 10th flag, their fourth in the last five years, the Dodgers, led by Duke Snider, reached 5 Pittsburgh pitchers for 12 hits, 5 of them home runs, accounting for all but 1 of their runs.

Club Record
Snider, the league's new-home run champion, blasted 2 home runs, driving in 4 runs, to increase his season's homer output to 43, a new club record. Sandy Amoros also had a pair, his 15th and 16th, and Jackie Robinson contributed his 10th of the season.

The Dodgers' mightiest home-run demonstration of the season made it possible for Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's biggest winner in 32 years, to record his 27th triumph. The big right-hander, however, was far from his best, and needed assistance from Don Bessent in the eighth inning, after the Pirates had clubbed him for 11 of their 13 hits and all their runs.

Bessent himself was ragged for three hits in 2-3 innings but he had it when he needed it most, retiring two batters with two Pirates on base in the eighth and disposing of the Buck in the ninth after Roberto Clemente had opened the final inning with a single.

Bobby Bragan's second-division Pirates, striving desperately to salvage the finale of the series and throw the pennant race into a possible playoff, battled the Dodgers tooth and nail and the result was in doubt until the final out.

Bragan employed five pitchers, finishing up with his ace, Bob Friend, who had started the first game of the series and worked in relief in the second game. The freshman manager also used five pinch hitters, a pinch runner, two second basemen and two shortstops to no avail.

Pittsburgh outlived the Dodgers, 13 to 12, but only one of the Pirates' safeties went for the distance. That was Lee Walls' bases-empty home run in the eighth which finished Newcombe. Walls came within a hair's breadth of hitting another homer in the fourth but his towering drive tipped off the top of the right field screen and bounced back for a three-bagger. There was only one out at the time but Pittsburgh failed to score when Dick Groat fouled to Carl Furillo in short right and Bill Mazeroski popped to Junior Gilliam.

A superb catch by Snider of Bob Skinner's long smash in the seventh turned back another Pittsburgh threat after the Pirates had rocked Newcombe for three runs to narrow Brooklyn's lead to 7-5. Consecutive singles by Groat, Mazeroski and Bob Shepard filled the bases with nobody out. Two outs later, Bill Virdon crashed a double to the right-field wall clearing the bases.

Skinner followed with a sky-scraper that Snider picked off the center-field wall with a leaping catch.

The relentless Pirates threatened again in the eighth and ninth innings. After Walls had drawn the Buck to within one run of the Brooks with his 11th home run of the season, after one was out in the eighth, Bessent replaced Newcombe and immediately found himself in a jam.

Groat lined a single to right. Gene Freese, batting for Mazeroski, rapped a sharp grounder to Robinson. Jackie, in his eagerness to start a doubleplay, fumbled the ball and both runners were safe. The bespectacled Bessent calmly got Shepard, who had already made three hits, to fly to Snider and struck out Dale Long on four pitches.

After Clemente opened the ninth with a single, the young right-hander forced Virdon to ground into a doubleplay, Brooklyn's third and threw a third strike past the swinging Hank Foiles, another pinch hitter, to end the game and send the Dodgers and all their loyal Flatbush faithful into a frenzy.

Ike To Attend Series Opener

ENROUTE WITH EISENHOWER, Sept. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower will attend the first game of the World Series at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn Wednesday.

The President's plans to take in the game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees were announced aboard his campaign train tonight shortly after it left Washington for Cleveland, Ohio.

Somoza's Body Returned To Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 30 (AP)—The bullet-pierced body of President Anastasio Somoza was brought back from Panama today for two days of solemn funeral honors and burial in a soldier's tomb.

A U. S. Air Force DC4 plane brought the body from the Panama Canal zone where a corps of doctors tried vainly for a week to save the strong man who ruled this country for 20 years. An assassin's bullets brought him down Sept. 21 at a celebration in the Nicaraguan provincial city of Leon.

Somoza's son Luis, who succeeded him in the presidency, wept at the airport as he embraced his widowed mother.

Duff Lists Peace As Major Issue

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sen. James H. Duff, Republican candidate for re-election, says "it might well prove fatal" if the nation's voters fail to re-elect President Eisenhower.

"Peace or war is the number one issue in this campaign," Duff said in a weekend statement. "But who can best assure it—Eisenhower or Stevenson—that is the question."

Railroads, Truckers Clash In Court

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30 (AP)—Two giants of American transportation—railroads and truckers—clash in federal court tomorrow in conflicting antitrust conspiracy suits seeking separately millions of dollars in damages.

The truckers, who brought the original civil action in 1953, want $20 million.

The railroads filed a countersuit last February for "in excess of $20 million."

Presiding over one of the biggest civil cases ever to be heard by one judge in one courtroom is Judge Thomas J. Clary. Not only will he be judge, he'll be the jury, too.

Two Months

Judge Clary expects the trial to last about two months.

These are the opponents:

Truckers—40 trucking firms that do business mainly in the East and Midwest and the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn.

Railroads—16 Eastern railroads, headed by the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Reading Co. and the Baltimore and Ohio; the Eastern Railroad President's Conference, and a New York public relations firm that the railroads employed, Carl Byoir and Associates.

Witnesses already subpoenaed by the truckers, who will get the first chance to present testimony, include President James M. Symes of the P.M.T.A., America's biggest railroad; William White, former president of the New York Central and now head of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad; and Joseph Fisher, Reading president.

The suit against the railroads alleges that an illegal conspiracy was set in motion in May 1949 to force the truckers out of business by monopolizing interstate freight traffic.

All the railroad defendants denied the conspiracy charge.

Furthermore, the truckers charged the railroads "have greatly injured the public interest and will in future tend increasingly to do so by monopolizing the hauling of freight in interstate commerce, resulting in increasing the cost to shippers and consumers of all commodities necessary to life, including clothing and food, a high percentage of which reaches consumers only by carriage in trucks."

Denial

This, too, the railroads denied. Early this year, after lawyers for the truckers had nearly completed the taking of pretrial depositions from railroad and Byoir officials, one of its key witnesses tossed a bombshell into the proceedings.

She was 32-year-old Sonya Saroyan of New York, a former Byoir secretary, who said that she was promised a $25,000 fee from the truckers for her testimony—and for material she allegedly took from Byoir files before she left that public relations firm—but she never was paid.

Robert McKay Green, Philadelphia attorney who heads the truckers' legal staff, categorically denied Miss Saroyan's charges and described her as "just a neurotic woman mad at the world and taking it out on everybody."

The Saroyan accusation—in a letter to Judge Clary—was followed six days later by the railroads' countersuit. This suit alleged that the trucking interests had been conspiring since 1945 to restrain trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Young Police Officer Killed

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30 (AP)—Twenty-one-year-old John Phelan, a patrolman just out of the police academy, was killed and three other policemen were injured Saturday night in a wild melee when a wounded prisoner shot his way out of an ambulance.

The 17-year-old unidentified gunman was shot again when he was re-captured in the last of a wild series of firefights. The 200-pound 6-foot 6-inch, Negro, had three bullet holes in him but was apparently in good condition in Maryland General Hospital.

He was accompanied on his visit to Stevenson by his own campaign director, E. Joseph Donohue, District of Columbia lawyer, and J. Howard McGrath, one of his principal advisers.

Today the President and Mrs. Eisenhower helped dedicate St. Sophia Greek Orthodox cathedral in Washington. They were presented with the highest award of the church—the Golden Medal of St. Andrews, by Archbishop Michael, primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Western Hemisphere.

On Oct. 18, Eisenhower will drive to Tacoma where he will speak before going on to Portland, Ore., for a national radio-TV talk that evening.

Adlai Releases State Agenda

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30 (AP)—A one-day campaign tour of Pennsylvania this week by Adlai Stevenson will signalize what the Democratic state committee has called "one of the heaviest concentrations on getting out the vote for the Nov. 6 election ever undertaken by the Democratic state organization."

"We are focusing on the presidential campaign," Stevenson said in a statement yesterday, adding: "Pennsylvanians are beginning to fully understand how the disastrous national and international policies of the Eisenhower administration are cutting down economic security at home and threatening us with another war abroad."

Stevenson last appeared in Pennsylvania at a $50-a-plate dinner Sept. 13 in Harrisburg where he made his first televised campaign address.

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic State Chairman, said Stevenson's appearance Wednesday "will signalize one of the heaviest concentrations on getting out the vote for the Nov. 6 election ever undertaken by the Democratic state organization."

"Mr. Stevenson is doing the American people a tremendous service by exposing these conditions and letting them know without any political double-talk precisely where they stand on issues that are of greatest importance to them as a free people."

Eden Fighting Bitterly For Political Life In Dispute With Egypt Over Suez Canal

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden is fighting for his political life in the Suez Canal crisis.

And he is fighting with the bitterness of a man who feels he has already been doublecrossed once by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

This explains, in part, the sometimes seemingly wavering position of the British Prime Minister toward the use of force in resolving the Suez dispute.

The story goes back two years, negotiated the treaty with Nasser providing for withdrawal of British troops from the Suez Canal zone. The withdrawal was carried out against the opposition of a hard core of empire-minded Conservatives in Parliament known as the Suez Group, which cried this meant "surrender."

Eden defended withdrawal with the assertion:

Hope

"It is our hope that it will now be possible to establish our relations with Egypt on a new basis of friendship and understanding. The government believes that this is also the intention of the Egyptian government."

One of the terms of the treaty was preservation of the 1888 Constantinople Convention guaranteeing freedom of navigation through the Suez Canal. This was in July 1954.

Two months ago, when Col. Nasser seized control of the canal, Eden—now prime minister—admitted surprise and shock. Before the Suez Group could say "we told you so" he moved swiftly and determinedly and put Britain on a virtual war footing through a royal proclamation.

The swift reaction caught the imagination of Britons tired of being kicked around. Even those who had criticized Eden for being a "ditherer" were impressed.

The French, who blame Nasser for stirring up much of their own troubles in North Africa, heralded Eden and offered him support. They cheered Eden's cry that international control of the Suez Canal was a matter of "life and death to us all."

In the beginning, the British Labor party gave the impression it was wholeheartedly behind the government's stand—but second thoughts began to occur.

When Washington made it clear it was against force, Eden found himself faced with a new situation.

Opposition

Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the Laborite opposition in the House of Commons, declared:

"We think that Egypt has acted wrongly and that Col. Nasser's dramatic actions are to be deplored and resisted but we do not think that the government is entitled to go to war, or to issue threats of war, as Tory spokesmen and the Tory press have been suggesting."

Britain's eight-million-strong Trades Union Congress went on record with a declaration that force be used only with the consent of the United Nations.

Though the British seem divided—and politically they are at the moment on how to deal with Nasser—a step by him endangering jobs could unite them.

The British and French privately admit being a little confused about the United States. Many feel that any London or Paris suggestions—if they even hint of getting tough—are undercut by Washington.

Sir Robert Boothby, an outspoken Conservative member of the British Parliament who supports the Eden government but doesn't hesitate to speak his own mind, sized up a faction of British thinking this way:

"Anyone who imagines that the Americans are prepared to shoot their way anywhere during an election year qualifies for a lunatic asylum."

Money Plays Same Role As Policies In Suez Situation

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

BEHIND THE SCENES as Britain and France seek to put full steam behind their Suez policies is a matter of money as well as principles.

Every day that the discussions delay the final showdown puts Egypt's Nasser in better shape at a point where he is weakest—the pocketbook.

Before nationalization of the canal Egypt was getting about seven per cent of its take. Now it's about 40 per cent. The rest, paid by countries which refuse to let their ships pay Nasser, goes into the blocked accounts of the old Suez company in Britain, France and now the United States.

The old company has no intention of paying Nasser anything out of these funds. Nasser has no intention of paying off the old company's shareholders until there is a settlement of the over-all political question of the canal.

Claim

Then he intends to claim the blocked funds and use them to pay off. Right now they amount to some $5 million pounds and are growing. About $4 million is needed on the basis of the estimate of share values when nationalization was decreed. Thus Nasser, if he continues to operate the canal for a while, will by his own bookkeeping get the waterway for nothing.

The status of the blocked funds under international law, however, is a matter that may be long in solution.

But every day that he holds on between now and any settlement which recognizes Egypt's sovereignty over the canal puts Nasser in better shape to withstand the economic forces which the Allies are preparing to bring against him. That's why the United States is cutting off payments by her ships.

The decision of Britain and France to press the issue before the United Nations, getting the machinery started seven while the users' association is still being organized, indicates the speed they consider necessary to parry Nasser's consolidation of his position.

There is no expectation that the Security Council will be able to adopt any resolution in the face of Russian support for Nasser.

All the steps now being taken by the Allies can, therefore, be considered as designed primarily to prepare a record which can be used as background for more direct action.

Special music was presented by the Ackermanville orchestra. St. Peter's, known locally as the "Brick Church," goes back to the early days of the former Evangelical Church, now the Evangelical United Brethren Church. The founder, Jacob Albright, made journeys into this area and established a class or meeting about 1800.

During Mr. Ulmer's six-year ministry, the church has been redecorated, an organ and chimes have been purchased, a missionary society has been formed, and other improvements have been made.

All Kids Aren't Going Wild

By Paul Carlson

"KIDS ARE really going wild these days!"

You've heard something like this said scores of times by older folk who point to the rise of juvenile delinquency, hot-rods and that crazy rock-n-roll.

From what some people say, you'd think today's young people are a bunch of morons, who give relatively no serious thought to the world in which they find themselves.

But let's look in for a minute on a group of 10th and 11th grade youngsters, who are spending a Sunday evening at their church. This group isn't different from a dozen other such organizations. No, there's lots of them in our town.

However, in this case, the group happens to be the Senior Westminster High Fellowship at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. And at this meeting the kids are discussing the complex problem of the church and racial integration.

As you sit with them, you immediately sense that this is no bunch of Pollyannas and Horatio Alger, Jr.s. No sir! Here is a typical bunch of modern youngsters complete with pony tails and ludicrous sports shirts.

At the outset of their get-together, the kids break up into three groups. Each group tackles the problem before them from a different angle.

Then all come together again to present their conclusions.

One of the first to speak is a fellow with a "Butch" haircut. "The Bible tells us," he begins, "that God hath made of one blood all of the nations."

That started it. One after another raise their hands — sometimes with a spirit of urgency — and seek to interpret the meaning of this passage.

These kids aren't being prompted. Far from it. And when the pastor or an adult leader says something with which one of the young people doesn't agree, he makes no bones about saying so.

Suddenly, however, discussion leader Jerry Ifft calls a halt to the discussion, and poses a theoretical situation for the youngsters to study.

Jerry tosses around terms relative to the problem like a veteran. He speaks of integration, as against separate-but-equal rights . . . equal job and educational opportunities . . . financial pressures.

Then the group hammered away at the problem again. As they continued their discussion, you could sense that these young people couldn't quite imagine some of the abuses involved in the race problem elsewhere.

These young people talked of minority groups without any note of condescension.

Someone mentioned Marion Anderson, and everyone thought she was a mighty fine singing star. The name of Sammy Davis was also brought up, and you could tell that these kids thought Sammy was really cool.

Through the entire meeting there was a freshness and warmth. You couldn't detect a bit of hypocrisy in anything that was said. What these youngsters said, you knew they lived.

And when you left, you were sure of two things: Older folk might learn an awful lot if they took these young people seriously.

And because of kids like this, you were pretty sure that the world — and the community — won't be going to pot as long as the likes of them are around.

Dr. William H. Horwitz, Boston, to become director-psychiatrist in January. Dr. Erwin Lesser, Allentown, chief psychologist. Dr. Lesser assumed his new duties this Summer.

Dr. Horwitz is a top Massachusetts mental health official. He replaces Dr. Robert Mellon, now engaged in private practice. Dr. Lesser succeeded Dr. Charles Morris who is now in charge of psychiatric services at the new Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute in Philadelphia.

Harvard Grad

A graduate of Harvard, Dr. Horwitz has been senior psychiatrist in the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health since Sept. 1, 1953 and director of the West End Guidance Center in Boston since Oct. 15, 1953. He received his medical degree from Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore in 1938. He is married and has two sons.

Dr. Lesser received his doctor of philosophy degree in clinical psychology from Pennsylvania State University. Earlier, he served as a clinical psychologist-technician in the Army. Dr. Horwitz served in the U. S. Army in World War Two, also.

Medical Center Enters Option

MUTHLEBERG Medical Center, by the approval of its Board of Directors, has entered into an option with William J. Ruth, Allentown RD 4, to purchase an additional tract of land of approximately 70 acres located partly in Lehigh County and partly in Northampton County. Thirty Acres of the tract are located in Lehigh County, and within the limits of the city of Bethlehem.

This acreage is contiguous to the tract of approximately 40 acres for which the corporation has entered into a purchase agreement with Harold S. Campbell. The option runs for one year during which period the corporation, as the proposed campaign develops, is given the opportunity to exercise the option to purchase.

It has been the declared policy of the Board of Directors to acquire sufficient acreage for purposes of expansion and to provide adequate facilities in view of the fact that the area will, as it is predicted, undergo intense development. The transaction involving this option was consummated on Sept. 21.

What Makes A Newspaper Great? First, It Must Perform Service

The Daily Record, along with some 10,000 other newspapers spread across this great nation, today begins the observance of National Newspaper Week. The theme this year is "Your Newspaper — Freedom's Key to Better Living."

The occasion affords us the opportunity to take rightful cognizance of the many contributions a newspaper makes to the vitality and health of a community.

But this once-a-year chance to blow our own horn has a much deeper significance than just that. For The Daily Record, it means a time when it can dedicate itself anew to the premises that this newspaper's existence is justified only to the extent that it serves the best interests of the whole community.

First of all, although it must be operated on a business-like basis if it is to survive and progress, the newspaper is not a business in the usual sense of the word. It is a living, breathing profession mirroring the everyday deeds and expressions of the people it serves, without fear or favor.

In compiling, disseminating and interpreting the daily news story of a community, the newspaper becomes a very integral part of that community and a power and influence that helps mould its future. Moreover, as the newspaper takes on the role of a powerful force in its town or city, it assumes a responsibility to the people that transcends the buyer-seller relationship of a business.

This responsibility takes several forms: (1) If a newspaper is to do its job well, it must give a complete and impartial account of the daily happenings in a clear and interesting manner. (2) It must interpret the major news stories and editorialize on them. (3) It must serve both the public and the business life by opening its columns to those who wish to advertise. And (4) it must provide features for the entertainment and enlightenment of its readers.

No paper can be great unless it does a good job in meeting all of its responsibilities.

The Daily Record, which is pledged to devote its energies to the best interests of the entire community, takes the occasion of National Newspaper Week to reaffirm its position in the firm belief that through its efforts, and those of others, will come a bigger and better community.

$5,000-An-Ounce Offer For Beards Gives Men Good Excuse Not To Shave

Did you ever look into the bathroom mirror in the morning, men, and say to yourself, "By the beards of the prophets, I wish I didn't have to shave today," or some other such expression?

Well, you can take heart and indulge this repressed desire now. An ironclad excuse to do so has been handed mankind on a silver, 21-inch platter.

That facial hirsute adornment may be worth $5,000 an ounce and an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood for you. That's exactly what an electric shaver manufacturer is offering men with three-month-old beards who are willing to have them shaved off on a television program.

(The offer is of interest here because it is made by Ronson Corp., a firm which produces all of its cigarette lighters at local plants).

What a grand alibi — a five-grand alibi to be exact — for you late risers and tender-skinned stubble scrapers. Even if you don't get chosen for the jackpot, you will have saved on blades, cream, lotion and time, or at the very least on electricity.

And wifely protests to your whiskery whims will have vanished. For what woman won't be noble enough to trade a few scratchy kisses for the price of a possible mink coat?

Five thousand dollars an ounce is a lot of money for anything these days. It's frustrating, though, to think of the fortune those of us with a facial green thumb have been washing down the drain every morning all these years.

George Sokolsky Says...

Nasser's Program Is Phase Of World-Wide Revolution Initiated By Lenin, Trotsky

It is impossible to understand Nasser's program unless Mao Tse-tung's program, Nehru's program and the revolt of the Moors in North Africa are simultaneously considered, because what is happening in Egypt is only a phase of the world-wide revolution initiated by Lenin and Trotsky and their associates in 1917. This revolution has already passed through several phases and there is much unfinished business still to plague the rest of mankind.

One of these phases is the revolt of the dark-skinned peoples against the white peoples. If a Hindu, for instance, were told that Soviet Russia is the most colonial nation on Earth, the Hindu is likely to reject the idea. He probably adopts the attitude that colonialism means the subjection of the dark-skinned peoples to the white-skinned countries. And it is this formula that Soviet Russia has succeeded in establishing in Asia and Africa to the peril of all Western countries and the peace of the world.

It is a devastating formula because, as things stand today, it could mean a retreat from civilization. Way back in 1863, Jules Michelet, the French historian, writing about Kosciuszko, said: "... we must simply consider Russia as a whole, as a barbarous force, a lawless world, a world hostile to law; one which does not advance, but retreats and reverts to ancient barbarism, a world which accepts modern civilization only in order to bring disintegration into the Western world and to kill the law itself. The world of law has its frontiers where it used to have them in the Middle Ages, on the Vistula and on the Danube. Russia takes from us only the evil. She absorbs all the poison of Europe. She returns it in an increased and more dangerous form. Accepting Russia we accept cholera, anarchy and death..."

And somehow this judgment fits today as it was unquestionably true prior to the Bolshevik Revolution. The Russians, from the start of their history, moved in a different direction from Western Europe. The West was Roman; Russia was Byzantine. The West was oriented toward freedom; Russia continued the concept of autocracy. While those nations which derive their civilizations from Greece and Rome developed steadily and increasingly in the direction of a greater liberty for the individual, wherever the influences were Byzantine or Oriental, the direction was always toward power for those who controlled the state and the subjection of the people to those in power. Thus, east of the Vistula and the Danube has appeared a number of countries and peoples who are wholly unlike those in the West in habits, in thought, in their attitudes toward moral and public questions. It is altogether a different world.

When to these historical differences are added the racial distinctions of pigmentation, the relationships become complex and difficult of solution. For the pigmented peoples have always resented the power the white-skinned peoples have asserted over them. The nations that produced Aristotle and Averroes will not regard themselves as inferior to those who produced Maimonides and Thomas Aquinas.

Here is a conflict that for centuries was limited to academic discussion; now it is the foremost problem of our century. It is the color problem which is disturbing Asia and Africa and therefore Europe and the United States. Granted that Soviet Russia stepped into that situation and aggravated it, the fact is that the disease was festering and the Russians knew what to do to make it explosive. They took the poisons of Western history and distilled them to greater potency, until now there are no doctors so wise or able that they know what to do. Nasser of Egypt stands as the white-skinned man telling the white-skinned one to come and fight him and he knows that no one dare start a fight because that would mean the hydrogen bomb and the end to everything.

Even had the wisest men foreseen this — and there were many who did foresee it — not the least of whom was Rudyard Kipling — there would still be no answer. It is one of those crucial historic situations, like the rise of the bourgeoisie in the French Revolution and the proletariat after World War I which works itself out over the centuries. The hope now is that whatever else it brings, it will not bring more war.

The Once Over

Nearly all post offices have been equipped with modern ball pens to replace the terrible P.O. pens of history.

An unprecedented drop in profanity is expected. And a good deal of the nation's high blood pressure will disappear, too. On the other hand there is bound to be some unfavorable reaction, since the public has had so many years of difficulty with wholly useless post office pens, that it may resent being suddenly deprived of a great excuse for tap-blowing and general intransigence. For generations the post office pen has served as an outlet for emotional outbursts and fair target for criticism of the postal service, all postmasters and the government in general.

We know a man who, whenever he wanted to f— mean, but couldn't quite make it, would go to the post office and use one of its pens. He would become a stinker in no time, capable of the most senseless fury. And we have heard of an executive who never felt quite up to the necessary belligerency at some board meeting until he first had a workout with P. O. writing materials. The sudden compulsion to use a perfectly good pen can come as quite a shock.

Just what will happen to the ball pens, we do not know. They are held to the postal desks by chains, but the public can be fooled indefinitely by this. Our information is that thousands have disappeared already. Not a few people carry metal cutters. And there is always the muscular fellow who can't look at a chain without establishing his superiority. The worst case to come to our attention is that of a man who filed the chains on three pens, as the wife and kid wanted one, too, left a pencil with a broken lead on the desk and then filled a fountain pen from one of the post office inkwells.

Then there is the fellow who used one of the ball pens with satisfaction at the post office desk but complained to the postmaster that there was no slurring pool so he could see if it would write UNDER WATER.

Our inquiring reporter stopped around for a few opinions:

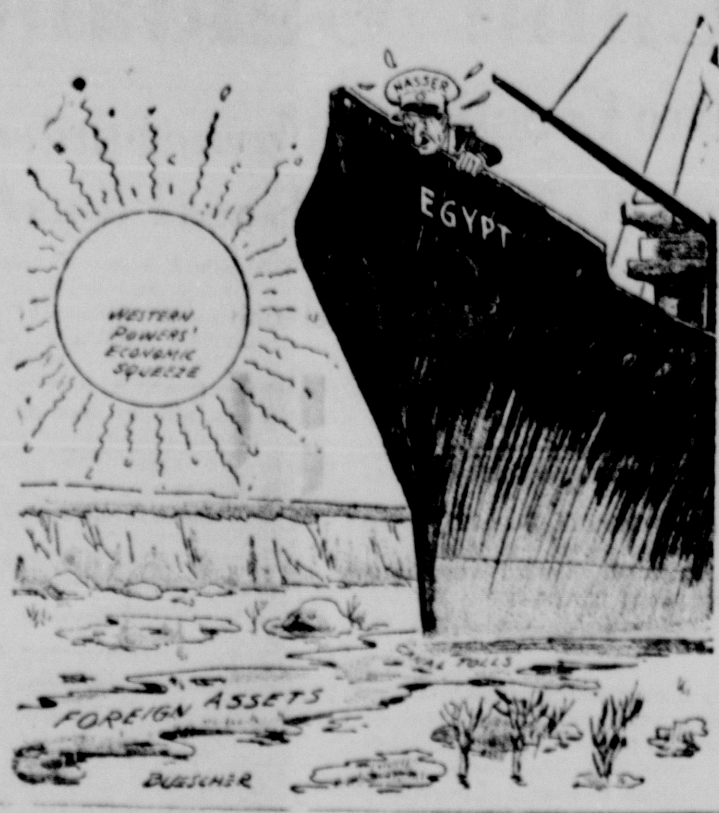

Hosley B. Boggs, taxidermist: After thirty years I finally got so I could write with a post office pen, and now the government comes and crosses me up and puts in ball pens? There is no justice!

Pettigrew Zagers, comedian: This is a terrible blow to the entertainment world. For generations the post office pen was. Yes, there are a few ball pen jokes, but they don't compare.

Wesley Bippings, postmaster: What do I think of the new ball pens? Don't ask. They were all swiped the first day and we are back to the old ones.

Elvis Presley's agent, asks NBC for $300,000 for one spectacular and two guest appearances.

CRYING UP

Hypnotism In Use By Doctors And Amateurs

Bridget Murphy, 19th century Irish colleen, may or may not be cruising around today in reincarnated Colorado-housewife form. But whether she really existed then, she has stirred up enough ruckus among hypnotists and psychic phenomena scholars to have wished she never had.

Maybe in politics there is an "undecided" voting group sitting on the fence and not getting off 'til Tuesday, November 6. (And don't forget to register; otherwise you stay on the question of Bridget Murphy, there is no palatable undecided faction. Readers either heatedly espouse or heatedly reject the idea that the departed soul of another might be reincarnated in the lady or gent across one's breakfast table. As yet there are no battle lines drawn between these groups.

Battle lines have been drawn, however, between hypnotists professional and amateur. Scholarly gentlemen within the medical fraternity who employ hypnotism as a serious and important therapy are mad as wet hens about the amateur hocus-pocus entertainers moving in where angels and psychiatrists fear to tread.

Hypnotism is not for amateurs, they say. It is not a cute parlor trick for the amusement (and peril) of one's dinner guests. Hypnotism is not, as over-eager devotees have said, a harmless experiment to be engaged in by thrill-seekers.

From the realms of printed precautions against trance-inducing by amateurs, one would assume that in every third parlor across the country some fond-loving chap is hypnotizing his neighbor while equally entranced onlookers observe. I doubt it.

No question but that the Bridget Murphy craze brought on a plague of do-it-yourself hypnotists—but I seriously question the number involved, and what they were up to just prior to reading about our Irish doll.

These were the folk it is hard to entertain, anyhow. People who gulp their brandy and coffee, crying—"What game shall we play?" People who seek kicks and manufactured gaiety, "the better to know you, my dear." People who play Monopoly with real money. Who must pursue the Frolic Franic wherever and whenever it lead. Sure, they took hypnotism as a fun thing; they had tired of Russian roulette. Although I feel the warnings against tinkering with hypnotism to be timely, it seems to me reports of widespread tinkering are exaggerated.

Here, I think, is the real job of such informative pieces: acquainting the public with the near-miraculous medical uses of hypnotism, when employed by those who know what they are about. As one article asked, "Would you let a layman administer an anesthetic? Would you take a shot of penicillin from a child? Would you be operated on by anyone but a surgeon?"

Ethel Barrymore has written about any number of famous men she met in her busy career, but the one who obviously surprised her most was none other than Calvin Coolidge. Obviously she had expected a solemn, taciturn sourball. Instead, she recalls, "Mr. Coolidge made me laugh very, very much. He had an enormous sense of humor he deliberately hid from the people. In fact, he confessed to me, 'I have a feeling the American public prefers a solemn ass for a President. I guess I'll go along with them!'"

Robert S. Allen Reports

Frankfurter, Reed, Black Eligible To Retire On Age

Washington, Oct. 1 — There is at least one other very probable departure from the Supreme Court before its newly begun term ends next June.

In addition to Justice Sherman Minton, who has announced he is retiring this month, three others are also eligible to do that on the basis of age and length of service.

One of them is definitely set to quit "if the election turns out right."

All of these three justices were appointed by the late President Roosevelt as young replacements for the "Nine Old Men" with whom he warred over New Deal innovations. Now in the seventies themselves, the three are as follows:

Justice Felix Frankfurter, 75 and the oldest member of the court. Appointed in 1939, the one-time Harvard law professor has slowed down markedly in the past year, and has surprised friends with hints about retiring and devoting himself to "writing." This is a significant change in attitude. Previously Frankfurter had asserted his intention to emulate his friend, the late great Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who remained on the bench until 90. Frankfurter is an admirer of President Eisenhower.

Justice Stanley Reed, 73, who was appointed in 1938. The Kentuckian first came to Washington in 1929 as General Counsel of President Hoover's Federal Farm Board. Several years ago Reed was gravely ill from hypertension, but recovered and lives largely on rice and a severely restricted non-fat and non-salt diet.

Justice Hugo Black, 71 and the first of the Militant New Dealers put on the Court. He and Justice William Douglas still live unwaveringly to that viewpoint. Black also has been ill in the past several years; in 1955 had an operation and suffered painfully from shingles. But he is again in good health, and during the summer played tennis three and four times a week. Black and Douglas privately favor Adlai Stevenson.

The New Deal jurists were surprised by Minton's retirement announcement.

They knew he contemplated quitting as soon as eligible to do so. The one-time Indiana Senator suffers increasingly from pernicious anemia and a heart condition, and has difficulty getting about. But shortly before the Court shut down last spring, Minton implied to them he would withhold his exodus until after the election.

Chief Justice Earl Warren is credited with persuading Minton to make his intention known before November 6.

In the several years Warren has headed the august tribunal, he and Minton have become close friends. Court insiders say the former Republican Governor of California convinced the former Democratic Senator from Indiana that it would be to the best interest of the Supreme Court in particular and the federal judiciary in general to declare his decision to retire before the election.

Emphasis was placed on the point that this would be especially desirable in view of Minton's pro-Stevenson statement last month.

Federal judges are appointed for life, but can go on the "inactive list" at 65 after 15 years service, or at 70 after 10 years on the bench. They get full pay as long as they live. Under the Constitution, the pay of federal judges cannot be reduced. The last Congress voted the judiciary sizeable raises.

Minton is 66, and completed 15 years as a federal judge last July.

Oyez! Oyez!—President Eisenhower wants to name Justice Minton's successor before the November balloting. Whether the President can make a selection by then depends on certain backstage factors. Fourteen names are on the list under consideration. Most of them are judges. . . . The Supreme Court is at a loss on what to do with files and personal papers of the late Chief Justice Vinson and Justice Jackson. The tribunal has no facilities for such private records, and they have not been claimed by the families of the two deceased jurists. . . . The tribunal has asked Congress for funds to provide offices for retired justices. The Supreme Court has the space for that, but lacks the necessary equipment. This unannounced request is deemed a significant indication that several or more of the justices will quit in the coming months. Under the law, federal judges do not actually retire. They go on the inactive list and can be recalled to the bench, if they are willing. Justice Harold Burton, one-time Republican Senator from Ohio who was appointed by President Truman, was delegated to make the retired offices proposal. Burton did that in a private talk with one-time Senate colleagues on the Appropriations Committee.

Things got pretty rocky when a Naples, Italy, transit company raised its fares the equivalent of four cents. State crowds stoned some of the street cars.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

It's convention time in the Pocomos all right, and no sooner do you come unstuck from sitting through one than another is upon us. Today of course is the Music Club Convention at Zion Church, and that is unique in one respect — its members come equipped with built-in music so to speak.

Built-in stories, that's what newspaper women come equipped with, it seems, after attending the district meeting on Saturday. If your ears were burning, it's no wonder because while Women's Clubs talk about departments, and Music Clubs talk about music, newspaper women talk about people.

It's as well you weren't listening, however, since you'd probably get swelled heads. Of course, you know you've got the smartest publicity chairman, the most wide-awake welfare program, the most enterprising projects of anybody, but don't stop now.

On the other hand, hearing some of the rules and regulations which other newspapers have set up regarding deadlines, formats, and content of stories turned in by the public, you're pretty lucky, too.

Anyway, the idea of all conventions is to get some new ideas and new inspirations, and there was no lack of either; but, again as in all conventions, the danger is that your energy and enthusiasm wanes before you put the new ideas into action.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

FOR THREE IT'S PINE

Something new in old flay-or has been added, in our Wyckoff gift department, and there's this to say—it won't be with us long. It happens to be pine woodcraft by Mallick, of Wingate, N. C., and it's just the thing a homemaker with a sense of nostalgia for things past PINES for!

This lovely furniture and woodware is transitional in styling so that it will blend with both modern and period decor. The designs of the past have been most cleverly adapted to the needs of today, and one can picture countless uses for each softly waxed piece. There are stools, naturally, with woven seats... there are bowls of all sizes, square and shallow as well as round and deep... there are candlesticks... spice cabinets... and dough boxes that modern homes use proudly as end tables. There are big cheese or flour baskets that contemporary living would utilize for kindling, a child's toys, magazines, rainboots, or just about any other item of small to middling size that needs tucking into an out-of-sight place. One deep, wide bowl stands unmatchably atop a three-legged stool, and would be ideal for popcorn, apples and other fruits, near the family TV in the dining room. "It would be wonderful for use anytime," Martha Kent remarked, "but just picture it around the holidays!" I can very readily do that... it would undoubtedly be the focal center of any area in which it was used.

The prices are very reasonable too. In fact, the loftiest price tag I saw was 21.50... and that isn't at all bad. As a matter of fact, "A penny saved is a PINE-y earned."

IT CAME—IT'S A HIT—IT'S CORO! Here at Wyckoff's we're carrying about CORO, one of the most popular and exciting names in costume jewelry manufacture, and we have plenty of reason to be jubilant—our first shipment has just arrived and it's unbeatable in beauty and quality. It is almost unbelievable that each piece should sell for only 1.00, yet be so substantially made of such fine-gilding materials.

One set that we stock has less, frosty, freshwater pearls mounted on shiny "gold." There are huge button earrings, and daintier heart-effect pearl earrings which match a bracelet. Each piece is one dollar, believe it or not.

Even superior to this in quality, in my opinion, are the baroque pearls mingled with clear, pastel-colored gems, in scroll-type settings of antique gold. Three piece matching sets are available, each piece once again priced at 1.00.

Yes, we've corralled CORO at Wyckoff's, and by jiggers there's no excuse now NOT to glitter, and glimmer with the best!

Campaign To Preserve 'Cranberry Bog' Enters Home Stretch

$820 Must Be Raised To Protect Option

AN ALL-OUT FIGHT to preserve historic "Cranberry Bog" goes into its final three months this week.

According to William A. Niering, chairman of the project, another $820 is still needed to finance the absolute preservation of the bog.

The "Cranberry" is one of a very few vegetated areas of its kind left in the U. S. today. It contains within its boundaries some of nature's most revealing "secrets."

These "secrets" in the form of decayed or solidified vegetable matter can be used to trace an accurate history of the entire region.

Aside from its enormous value as an aid to scientific detectives and researchers, the bog also proved of great assistance to part of Monroe County during the 1955 flood. Serving as a reservoir, the bog prevented—or helped to prevent—bridges immediately below it from washing out while others throughout the county were destroyed.

In urging local residents to contribute to the fund to save the bog, Niering emphasizes the varied aspects of its contributions. He says:

Statements

"The Cranberry, an extensive bog developed from a glacial lake, is now filled and covered with a unique bog vegetation. This area has always attracted naturalists. Through the years, local high school groups as well as professional botanists from New York City and Philadelphia have visited the bog. Hunters have long valued it as a refuge and as a feeder area for upland game.

"With the rapid urbanization and industrial growth now occurring in our country, many areas of this type are rapidly disappearing as a result of either draining or filling. In order to prevent such developments in "The Cranberry," concrete steps have been taken to preserve the bog as a representative fragment of our natural heritage. In conjunction with the Nature Conservancy, a national organization which promotes such projects, an option was secured in January, 1956 on one of the vital tracts, comprising 62½ acres of bog an adjacent upland.

"A sum of $200 for the option has been paid by the Conservation and Research Foundation. In addition, over $500 has been contributed by organizations and friends, locally and from the Philadelphia region. The remaining amount of $820 must be raised by the end of the year in order to secure this portion of the bog.

One of Few

"There is no such natural area yet set aside anywhere in eastern Pennsylvania. In fact, the nearest habitat of this type which has been preserved cannot be found short of the Adirondack wilderness area."

The "Cranberry" is the most southern bog of its type. Although others exist in the northern part of the county, few are of equal interest. None is secure from disturbance or as easily accessible as the "Cranberry." The bog will be preserved in its wild state and title to the land will be held in the name of the Nature Conservancy. A group of local citizens will assume custodianship.

Local contributions should be sent to Walter H. Sebring, 38 N. Seventh St., Stroudsburg.

Fred Van Deventer

Van Deventer To Speak At Dutch Treat

A MAN WHO can tell local audiences whether the current news is "animal, vegetable or mineral" is the first Dutch Treat Club speaker of the upcoming season. He is Fred Van Deventer, veteran news reporter, commentator and an originator of the sensational-popular radio program "Twenty Questions."

Van Deventer will be seen and heard by Dutch Treaters on Thursday night, Oct. 11. His address will follow the customary dinner in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Small Paper

He got his "start" working for the small paper in his hometown—Tipton, Indiana—as a printer's devil. From that job he "graduated" to "star reporter," later jumped to the Indianapolis Star and to Associated Press.

Van Deventer covered the bloody automobile industry riots in 1936. Six years later he made his "debut" as a news commentator with a Detroit station, then on to WOR, the anchor station in the Mutual network.

In 1946, the idea for "Twenty Questions" was born. It came, rightfully enough, from Van Deventer's daughter, Nancy, in response to an elder's moan that "new ideas" for radio were hard to come by. Nancy thought "animal, vegetable or mineral" was right fine. So did Mutual.

So, it turned out, did Herb Pole, Bill Slater, Florence Rindard Van Deventer—and, the nation. "Twenty Questions" for several years led the nation's "listener polls" as the favorite radio parlor game and quiz show.

CD Classes Underway In Newfoundland

By Peggy Bancroft

NEWFOUNDLAND—"Civil Defense is for city people. I live on a farm, why should I be 'organized'?"

Such a statement was made last week in Wayne County as recruits were being sought for the Auxiliary Police Training School scheduled each Wednesday night at Greene-Dreher-Sterling Joint School.

The answer, according to Civil Defense officials, came last year to many people in the sparsely-populated areas around Newfoundland. Floodwaters had not yet subsided when Civil Defense cleanup funds were made immediately available to rebuild, replace and repair.

Civil Defense is not only for preparation against enemy attack. It is preparation for any disaster, including flood and fire, and is of vital importance to all officials point out.

Wednesday night classes in auxiliary police training are under the leadership of Detective Arthur Jones, of Scranton, a retired Pennsylvania State policeman. They are open to men and women.

Series

Last week, 42 men attended the second in the series of eight instructional meetings. Seventeen of these were Newfoundland area men, including Webster Gilpin, Alan Smith, and John Robacker, all of Angels; David Holdren, Bobby Holdren, of Panther; Elmore Haag, Bobby Haag, Weldon Heister, George Haag, John Kravert, Bill Evans, Charles Ehrhardt, John Strupewski, all of Newfoundland; Dr. Robert Rochford and Claude Butler, of Sterling.

Willis Gilpin, Newfoundland, heads the Civil Defense organization in Dreher-Twp. The executive council includes James Gilpin, Isaac Martin, and Samuel Green.

Division heads are Charles Ehrhardt, fire and rescue; Clayton Northing, emergency welfare; Robert Robacker, engineering; Robert Staph, public information records and registration; Lorimer Brown, transportation; Elmore Haag, security and traffic control; and Dr. Frank Urdiel, medical and technical.

The next "school night" for auxiliary police will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday at the school. Registration is still open.

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

IT WAS A BLACK Friday indeed for local followers of scholastic football when Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High School met for the first time during the 1956 season.

The Mountaineers' loss to Palmerton, probably was easier to take, considering the comparatively easy time the Blue Bombers had in checking up their third straight victory of the campaign.

For all intents and purposes the charges of John Whitehead were out of the ball game as early as the first quarter. While the scores didn't come until the third and fourth periods, it didn't take much figuring to note that Friday wasn't the Mountaineers' night.

Stroudsburg's attack, what little there was of it, was harmless. Palmerton's forward wall, far from the greatest, contained the Mountaineer runners almost on every turn. It was just a question of how many plays the Stroudsburg could get in before the Bombers took over.

They say possession is nine tenths of the law. Well, the same is true in football as Stroudsburg found out. For the most part, when Palmerton got control they retained it.

From our vantage point, Stroudsburg has gone down hill tremendously since its fine over opening-game victory over Lehigh. The backs aren't running as hard and the line isn't helping either as holes close up faster than they open.

In Whitehead's T-attack, the line and backs have to work together. When the hole is there, the runner has to hit it. Split-second timing on blocking and attacking is the main essential. The boys out on 12th street have shown a lack of this the past two weeks.

We always felt that Stroudsburg's big asset was in the scoring department. When and if they lost it would be, for example, by a 20-13 tally or 13-12 score. But for some reason Friday the blank job was in the air and maybe for the good of all, it came in such a convincing manner.

East Stroudsburg, on the other hand, scored, and on a couple of occasions just missed going into the end zone. Taking nothing away from the Bangor victory, the Cavaliers might have been in the title all the way if Co-Captain Frank Lupin was in the lineup.

The loss of Lupin to a team, such as the Cavaliers, is a blow to itself. Frank is THE veteran back. He's the team's No. 1 ground gainer and the inspirational leader that sparks the club above and beyond its normal heights.

Could be, even with Lupin in the lineup, the Cavaliers were set to be doomed Friday. But, it will make nice, encouraging talk, to toss around the fact that with Lupin Eastburg would have done better.

East Stroudsburg's line, a big factor during the early successes of Jack Kist's proteges, had their troubles Friday. But the problems were in an all-veteran Bangor backfield that was bound to shake loose sometime. And with the Maroon's forward wall making its first jell with J. L. Williams and Co., the inevitable was bound to happen. And from the final score did.

While sadness loomed over the locality on the scholastic front, the young men under the guidance of Eugene Martin of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College more than made up for the sorrow with their 13-0 win over Ithaca.

The Martinmen, like their Northampton High counterparts, use the short punt attack. And from the looks of the Warrior and Konkrete Kids early exhibitions, it must be an alright offense.

With Eastburg's own Dick Merring leading the way via a 70-yard scoring scamper, the Warriors of Normal Hill let it be known that teams in the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Conference will have their hands full this year.

ESSTC has the punch as Millersville and Ithaca will attest. And the Warriors got a study gang of up-front merchants as Millersville and Ithaca also will attest.

Considering everything and taking the late Al Smith's famous verbal attack, "Let's look at the records," ESSTC, Stroudsburg and Eastburg are sporting good marks with 2-0 for the Warriors, and 2-1 each for the Mountaineers and Cavaliers. A 6-2 over-all log isn't anything to turn your nose up at.

Brooks Old Pros Whoop Up Like They Won 1st Pennant

By Ed Wilks

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Brooklyn's old pros sounded and looked as though they had just won their first pennant. Not their 10th or their fourth in the last five years.

The old guys whooped it up. Manager Walt Alston, flashing a big wide grin, slapped his guys on the back, shook hands and patted bottoms as the Dodgers poured into the dressing room after nailing the National League championship with an 8-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

Sandy "The Presidente" de- whose miff set up a Philadelphia victory last Wednesday that tumbled the Dodgers a game behind Milwaukee in the stretch run, was greeted with "Viva La Sandy!" Roy Campanella tagged little Coohah!

Everybody forgot about Sandy's error. The only thing they remembered was his winning two-run homer in yesterday's first game and his two home runs today—the shots that gave the Brooks the edge, as it turned out. The way photographers jammed players together with Amoros and Maglie, Sandy and Sal looked like photo studio props.

But while the fans, complete with a band tooting "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here," shouted "Bring on the Yankees" as they waited for their heroes outside the dressing room, there was little thought of the American League champions inside.

The Dodgers, world champions, haven't had time to think about the Yankees. They were too busy winning the pennant—doing it the hard way by sweeping three from the Pirates while Milwaukee skidded at St. Louis.

When they first barged into the clubhouse, their hollers and yips were almost a bit overdone—almost an "act" for the television cameras. But once they had grabbed a beer and had paused a moment to take a gulp and let the pennant sink in, they went on a tear.

Cammy hustled through the mob, gripping and kissing the ball with which relief pitcher Don Bessent had struck out pinch-hitter Hank Foiles to end the game. A bunch of the Brooks mobbed Capt. Pee Wee Reese and doused his head with beer.

"It Was Slider" Duke Snider, setting up a club record by hitting his 42nd and 43rd home runs, kept repeating over and over—"It was a slider." It hit for that first one. A slider! It came in the first inning with two on base against loser Vern Law and the Dodgers never trailed.

In Alston's office, the Dodger Manager was greeted by Coach Jackie Fitter's right hand—"give me the good hand of friendship, skipper," said Jake. "You were right all along. We did get it on the last day."

Champ Yanks End Season On Loss Side NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—The pennant-winning New York Yankees closed out the season by losing to the Boston Red Sox 7-4 in 10 innings today.

Mickey Mantle, the first triple crown winner since Ted Williams in 1947, pinch hit in the ninth inning and drove in a run with a ground ball for a total of 130, two more than Detroit's Al Kaline.

Other Crowns Mantle already had clinched the homer crown with 52 and the batting title with 3527. Ted Williams withdrew after walking in the first inning and his final average was .345.

Today's crowd of 18,587 put the final count at Yankee Stadium at 1,491,844, slightly better than last year's 1,490,138.

Rookie Dick Sisler went the distance, hurling a nine-inning, one of the blows being Yogi Berra's 30th homer.

NO IT'S NOT A BALANCING ACT—While it appears football is being balanced on back of Palmer fullback Jack Cook (61), the pigskin is actually on the bounce following an overthrow of a Tom Wargo pass intended for the downed Cook. Daily Record photographer Rod MacLeod caught Cook and ball in action in the Blue Bombers and Stroudsburg High game at Giffels Field last Friday night.

Braves Win Finale But End Up 2nd

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, dealt a death blow by the St. Louis Cardinals in their losing battle for the National League pennant, turned on the Redbirds for a 4-2 victory today which did nothing more than clinch second place.

Eddie Mathews, shackled in the first two losing games, broke loose to help Lew Burdette to his 19th victory. But the season ended for the Braves when they saw Brooklyn's pennant-clinching 8-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates posted on the scoreboard.

Milwaukee came to St. Louis with a one-game lead over the defending champion Dodgers but two successive defeats, 5-4, and 2-1 in 12 innings killed them as the Dodgers swept three from Pittsburgh.

Mathews batted in three runs with a run-scoring single in the fourth and a two-run homer, his 37th, in the sixth.

Burdette checked the Cards with nine hits, struck out four and walked only one. One run off him was unearned. He needed help from Ray Crone in the ninth.

Fail Goal The rightshander thus failed in his attempt to become the only Brave pitcher except for 20-game winner Warren Spahn to pitch a complete game since the end of August. He and Bob Buhl, the other man in the club's big three, faltered somewhat down the stretch.

Wilner (Vinegar Bend) Mizell was rapped for all the Milwaukee runs in his seven-inning stint.

Share Honors In Shawnee Shoot Meet SHAWNEE—Roy Cole, London, Ont., Joe Carson, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Martha Andrews, Spartanburg, S.C., were winners today as the 38th annual fall trapshooting tournament and post-wool of the Atlantic Indians opened at Shawnee-on-Delaware, near Stroudsburg.

Cole won the Indians' double title with 45 of 25-pair. High scoring woman was Mrs. Andrews with 40. Carson took the mixed preliminary 100 event with 99. Seeing 50 at singles and 49 at handicap from 20 yards.

Nats Set Whiff Mark In Losing WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Washington set an unwanted major league mark for striking out today while losing both ends of a season-ending doubleheader to Baltimore 4-2 and 6-3.

The Senators fanned 14 times, 13 in the second game, to run their year's total for going down in that fashion to 877. The previous record of 863, pinned on the old St. Louis Browns, had stood for 42 years.

Landy Wins Race In Bare Feet MELBOURNE, Sept. 30 (AP)—John Landy, running in bare feet on a soft grass track, today won his first competitive race since last May, the two miles in a charity meeting at Mornington. His time was 9:08.

The world champion miler looked his old stylish self, "I felt quite good, but it is evident that I lack racing form," he said.

Penn Vs. Navy In Midget Game PENN will meet Navy today in an East Stroudsburg Midget Football League game at East Stroudsburg Junior High's field, starting at 5:15 p.m.

Pius X Drops Opener, 18-6 To Phillipsburg Parochial

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J.—Pius X High of Roseto opened its 1956 football campaign on the losing side here Saturday when Phillipsburg Parochial handed the Royals a 18-6 setback at Maloney Field.

Led by Tommy Gazzana, Parochial broke loose with two scores in the opening quarter and added another in the second. The Royals tallied their six-pointer in the second.

Parochial went into a 6-0 lead at the outset of the game when the Garden Slaters recovered a Pius X fumble on the 35. Gazzana, on two end kicks, covered the distance for the TD.

Gazzana and Parochial made it 12-0 in the final stages of the first period when Tommy intercepted a Joe Sylvester pass and streaked 45 yards into the end zone.

The Royals cut the margin to 12-6 at the start of the second when Fullback Nick DeGrosso clamped a 60-yard drive by bulging over from the eight. DeGrosso, Joe Bavaria, Mike Romano and Phil Falcone were the big guns in the scoring march.

Phillipsburg's 18th and final marker came midway in the second canto when Bill Klega rapped 52 yards around end to pay dirt.

Second Half Defense Both sides threatened in the second half but the fine defensive play of the Royals and Terriers held away, keeping each foe away from the final striped line.

Yesterday, almost 10 months later, they came to grips again and again Wilkinson turned the tables on his teacher. The score was 36-0, Oklahoma over North Carolina, and it marked the 31st straight victory for the Sooners. That tied their own national collegiate record. All they must do is whip Kansas State next Saturday and they will have a new record.

Oklahoma is ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll and apparently has no intention of letting go its stranglehold.

"They're the real national champions," said Tatum. "They were better than us in every way. Every man was better than ours."

Georgia Tech and Michigan State, the two main pretenders to Oklahoma's lofty throne, also won, but neither had an easy time.

The Engineers, with little Jimmy Thompson tearing large gaps in the enemy line, got past Southern Methodist, 9-7, while the Spartans had to break a 7-1 halftime tie to gain a 21-7 triumph over Stanford.

Roundup Of Weekend Games On State Collegiate Front

By The Associated Press

DREXEL, one of Pennsylvania's two unbeaten football teams in 1955, lost its opening game of the new season as New Haven State Teachers snapped the Dragons' 12 game winning streak.

Other highlights of the second weekend of the college football season saw Pennsylvania Military win its second game in as many starts, Lafayette win its second game by whitewashing Temple, and Susquehanna, winner only once last year, off to a fresh start with a 26-13 upset triumph over Ursinus.

Among the state's powers, Pittsburgh turned back the nation's number seven ranked team, Syracuse, 14-7, and Penn State swamped Penn 34-0, passing the 19th straight defeat on the Quakers—the nation's longest major college winning streak.

Lehigh, an impressive winner in its opener last week, slubbed its foe against rebounding Delaware, losing 33-7. Carnegie Tech, one of the state's better teams a year ago, bowed 13-6 to Buffalo in the upstate New York city.

New Haven State, with a second string quarterback, Bill Marioni, scoring twice, handed Drexel its first loss since mid 1954, 28-19. The game was close for a half, with New Haven ahead 14-13 at the intermission, but the invaders struck for two third quarter TDs to win easily.

Quarterback John Costello tossed an 83-yard scoring pass and returned an intercepted pass 22 yards to a score for the Panthers. A scoreless deadlock for the first half and then quarterback Joe Bonk intercepted a Temple pass and raced 44 yards for a TD to open the floodgates for a Leopards triumph, 20-0.

Dick Purnell scored three touchdowns and accounted for 266 yards running and passing in Susquehanna's romp over Ursinus. Cory Salvaterra and Darrell Lewis, a pair of heady quarterbacks directed Pitt to its win over Syracuse.

The Panthers broke a 7-7 deadlock with a 19-yard TD pass from Lewis to end Joe Walton in the third period.

Penn State looked like a world heater against Penn. Coach Rip

Engle used two complete teams in alternate quarters to rip the hapless Penn team to shreds. Five different men scored for the Nittany Lions.

Larry Catuzzi, a junior quarterback, tossed two TD passes in Delaware's surprisingly easy win over Lehigh. A Dan Nolan to Joe Wenzel pass accounted for Lehigh's only score in the final period.

Castellucci Stars

In Teachers College ranks little Art Castellucci, a 150-pound junior from Bangor, scored two touchdowns in Kutztown's 13-6 victory over Cheyney. A 41-yard pass from quarterback Norman Lewandowski to end Bob McFarland was the 6-0 difference for Indiana over California. Harold Davis and Bill White scored twice each in Westminster's 27-21 win over Thiel. Bloomsburg blanked Delaware State 13-0. George Fintiman scored three times for Lock Haven, a 28-7 winner over Millersville. Mansfield led 14-0 to Brockport. Edinboro blanked Slippery Rock 13-0. And Jack Connors scored twice to lead Shippensburg to a 14-2 win over Shepherd College.

In other Saturday afternoon games, 7-C Smith topped Lincoln 7-0. Allegheny lost to Hobart 26-6. Dickinson won over Wagner 3-0 on Bob Cook's 20-yard field goal. Washington & Jefferson stopped Grove City 21-12. Moravian, with Paul Sifka scoring twice, beat Lehigh 20-6. Franklin and Marshall came from behind in the third quarter to tie John Hopkins 7-7. And Swarthmore lost to Hamilton, 26-0.

In Saturday night games, Bucknell came from behind to defeat Gettysburg 17-7. Muhlenberg scored three times in rapid succession late in the second quarter to beat Albright 18-0. Dominic Garda passed for three touchdowns as Lebanon Valley walloped Wilkes in their annual Bojarski Bowl game 39-6. Montclair Teachers of New Jersey turned two interceptions and a fumble into a 21-7 victory over National Aggies. Will Taylor scored twice as Geneva defeated Waynesburg 12-6. West Chester defeated Kings, 21-14, when the hosts let a kick-off roll into the end zone and West Chester fell on it for a score.

Presses Turn Out Billion Tax Forms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The government's printing presses are now engaged on their biggest job of the year—turning out about one billion forms to be used in collecting federal income taxes.

The time to square up with the government for your 1956 tax still is seven months away—next April 15. But between now and early December millions of forms and instructions having to do with individual taxpayer returns alone must be ready for distribution.

The Internal Revenue Service said today that from 250 to 275 carloads of paper will be consumed in the gigantic task.

The whole operation will cost the government more than four million dollars, including distribution by mail. That, of course, is a small sum compared with the record $34,100,000,000 the Treasury expects to net this year from individual taxpayers. Over-all the Budget Bureau has estimated 37½ billion dollars will be paid in, but refunds are expected to reduce that amount.

By early next week the first truckloads of the printed matter will be on the way from Washington to Kansas City, Mo., and to Lawrence, Mass., where labels will be attached to the packages for mailing to an estimated 60 million taxpayers.

A schedule calls for the first mail cars to roll out of Lawrence and Kansas City late in December and the postman will begin calling at your door with the forms any time after Jan. 2.

Army Builds A-Weapons Stockpile

ST. CAMPBELL, Ky., Sept. 30 (AP)—Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker said tonight the Army is stocking a variety of atomic weapons "which can be used with discrimination" against nearby as well as distant targets.

In an address prepared for ceremonies marking the formal reformation of the famous 101st Airborne Division—streamlined to the "most advanced concepts of war in the atomic age"—Brucker appeared to point to:

1. Further steps toward an ultimate Army goal to provide both its own close support firepower and to attack well behind enemy lines—without reliance on the Air Force.

2. A distinction between the massive destruction weapons of the Strategic Air Command and which the Army uses.

Brucker, after saying the Army is filling its arsenal with a "variety" of nuclear weapons, added: "Now in the hands of our troops are weapons of this nature—the Corporal guided missile, the 280mm gun and the Honest John rocket, which will be part of the organic artillery of the 101st.

"These give us a valuable interim atomic capability, but they constitute only a beginning. In the not too distant future we will have whole families of guided and ballistic missiles and rockets to give artillery the vastly increased range and effect necessitated by the conditions of atomic warfare. "Units are being organized and trained to utilize one of these new missiles, the comparatively long-range, extremely accurate and powerful Redstone missile. The Army is also bringing to bear upon the development of missiles of far longer range its 13 years of pioneering experience in the missile field."

Knights To Sponsor Open House

MEMBERSHIP and Insurance activity of the Father Butler Council Knights of Columbus, is sponsoring an open house program tonight.

Meeting time is 8 p. m. The conference is being held in the Italian Club on Stroudsburg's Lower Main St.

Primary aim of the open house is to "acquaint prospective eligible Catholic men of the area with the Knights of Columbus movement," a spokesman said. The council intends to give these men an opportunity to join the local group if they so desire.

Because it is "almost impossible" to carry out personal contacts with all Catholic men in the area within a 15-mile radius of Stroudsburg, the general invitation is being extended, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said: "The Knights of Columbus is a nationwide organization of over one million men joined together by the truths of their Catholic faith in a brotherhood which is foremost spiritual and secondly social with a truly Christian motivation for the common good of all."

Tonight's program will feature entertainment under the direction of Tom Waring and Tommy Cullen. Refreshments will be served.

The general invitation was extended last night by Grand Knight John Garrity and all members of the council.
